The finality of the rejection of the last Office action is withdrawn.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the “right to exclude” granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-4 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 2 of U.S. Patent No. 6,766,664 ('664).

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claimed blow head assembly is deemed as the head assembly of claim 2 of '664 reciting a displaceable cooling tube for which the instant application calls it a “blow tube”. The claimed support means is deemed as the take out arm of '664. The claimed first displacement means is deemed as the first displacement means for displacing the take out arm of '664. The claimed blow tube being displaceable is deemed as '664's cooling tube also being displaceable in an up and down position. The claimed second displacement means corresponds to the claimed second displacement means of '664. The claimed deflector and supporting frame corresponds to air deflectors and supporting frame of '664. '664 is silent disclosing having the blow/cooling tube being open at the bottom. However, the claimed instant feature would have been obvious at the time the invention was made in the '664 in order to allow for air to be deflected by the air deflector of '664.

Claim 2 of '664 provides for the limitations corresponding to instant claim 3. Consequently, in view that the structures recited in claim 2 correspond to the instant claim 3, the structural relationship of the blow tube/cooling tube with the supporting frame would be co-axial in order to have the annular flange of the supporting frame be press fit to the vertical extending post as required by claim 2 of '664.
